STAGE SET FOR 'DKShi SARKARA'

DK Shivakumar elected CLP leader; to take oath as CM at the Lok Bhavan Glass House at 4.05 pm on June 3

BENGALURU

The Congress Legislature Party (CLP) meeting at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Saturday afternoon unanimously elected DK Shivakumar as its new leader.

Shivakumar's name was proposed by Siddaramaiah, the outgoing chief minister, and seconded by Deputy Chief Minister G Parameshwara before being approved by the legislators.

The meeting was overseen by AICC general secretaries KC Venugopal and Randeep Singh Surjewala.

However, the CLP meeting, held at the conference hall of Vidhana Soudha, to elect the new leader took a break, and top leaders, including Siddaramaiah, Venugopal and Surjewala went into a huddle in a separate room, as per sources.

The CLP also passed a resolution thanking Siddaramaiah for his leadership and contributions to Karnataka and the Congress party.

"I have resigned from the post of Congress Legislature Party leader and Chief Minister. The decision to appoint the next leader has been left to the high command," said Siddaramaiah after leaving the CLP meeting.

Earlier, Shivakumar met Venugopal and Surjewala at a hotel ahead of the meeting.

Swearing-in ceremony at Lok Bhavan

The swearing-in ceremony of DK Shivakumar as the new chief minister will be held at the Glass House of Lok Bhavan here on June 3, said Congress state unit working president GC Chandrashekhar.

Addressing the media here, the Rajya Sabha member said, initially, there was confusion regarding the venue. Later, it was decided to hold it in the Governor's House.

Cong says no to extravaganza amid fuel crisis

According to him, there were discussions on booking around 10,000 to 15,000 buses from different parts of the state to bring people to Bengaluru for a large-scale event, but keeping the fuel crisis and the traffic congestion in mind it was cancelled.

"The swearing-in ceremony should not be extravagant. It should be conducted as simply as possible and should reflect a spirit of work and service rather than display or pomp. The party has taken a decision and issued directions that the event should be conducted in a simple manner," Chandrashekhar said.

He appealed to all party workers and supporters not to make efforts to rush to the venue and cooperate, so that there is no traffic congestion and no inconvenience to the public.

DKS CHOOSES AUSTERE CEREMONY

- Governor Gehlot to administer the oath of office.
- Initially, the oath-taking ceremony was planned on the Grand Steps of Vidhana Soudha, but later it was decided to scale down the grandness, reportedly after the advice by Shivakumar's deity Ajjayya and the police.
- Also, the plan to ferry people in 10,000-15,000 buses from various districts of the state was also shun, choosing an austere ceremony to avoid inconveniences to citizens on a weekday, and also keeping in mind fuel crisis and related expenses.
- After the swearing-in, the new CM will visit all district headquarters to meet voters and party workers.
- Speculation is rife that a dozen ministers will take oath along with Shivakumar in the first batch.
- Shivakumar has reportedly instructed his supporters to keep celebrations muted as he is wary of antagonising outgoing CM Siddaramaiah's supporters.

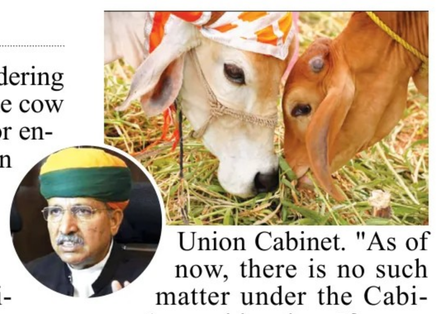
'No proposal to declare cow national animal or ban slaughter nationwide'

NEW DELHI



The Centre is not considering any proposal to grant the cow national animal status or enforce a nationwide ban on cow slaughter, Union Law Minister Arjun Ram Meghwal has said, amid continuing demands from various groups for such measures.

Meghwal, as per agencies, said representations seeking national animal status for the cow and a countrywide prohibition on cow slaughter are regularly submitted to Members of Parliament and the government.

"Various organisations keep working on these issues and approach MPs as well. People submit applications and make representations saying such a measure should be taken," he said.

However, the minister clarified that no proposal on the matter is presently before the Union Cabinet. "As of now, there is no such matter under the Cabinet's consideration. If a proposal reaches a stage where government or Cabinet intervention is required, we will inform you," Meghwal said.

"Different states take decisions on such matters based on their own circumstances and merits," he said, referring to the BJP-led West Bengal government's recent move to step up enforcement of cattle slaughter regulations under the state's 1950 law.

The minister acknowledged that demands for a complete ban on cow slaughter continue to be raised and are widely discussed, including on social media.

Call to declare cow national animal gets louder

While Hindu groups have been demanding the prohibition of cow slaughter in the country, several Muslim organisations and clerics have also called for declaring the cow the national animal and imposing a nationwide ban on cow slaughter. Jamiat Ulama-e-Hind chief Maulana Arshad Madani has been among those backing the demand, arguing that such a move could help reduce tensions surrounding the issue. Former Vice-President Hamid Ansari has also supported the proposal, saying if granting the cow national animal status could help address recurring disputes linked to cow slaughter, it should be considered.

Make Dr. Yatindra Siddaramaiah DyCM: Backward Classes Forum

MYSURU

The Karnataka State Backward Classes Awareness Forum, led by its State President K.S. Shivaram, held a meeting here on Saturday demanding that AHINDA youth leader Yathindra Siddaramaiah be appointed Deputy Chief Minister.

Addressing the gathering, he said the resignation of former Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had caused deep disappointment among AHINDA communities (minorities, backward classes and Dalits), who had overwhelmingly supported the Congress Party. Nearly 80 percent of these communities voted for Congress believing that Siddaramaiah's leadership would ensure greater representation and welfare for marginalized sections.

Shivaram described Siddaramaiah's resignation as a major development in politics and praised his contributions towards social justice and welfare-oriented governance. The Congress Legislature Party should address the concerns of AHINDA communities by providing appropriate representation to their leaders in the new political arrangement.

He also urged the party leadership to implement the caste census and social-educational survey accepted during Siddaramaiah's tenure, warning that failure to do so could have electoral consequences in the future.

According to him, Siddaramaiah's government had maintained a strong stand against communalism, corruption and nepotism. Future leaders should continue those principles and preserve the trust of marginalized communities.

Shivaramu stated that Siddaramaiah's place in Karnataka politics could not be easily filled, but argued that Yathindra Siddaramaiah was best positioned to carry forward his legacy among younger generations. He therefore demanded that Yathindra be appointed Deputy Chief Minister and given a significant role, particularly in the Old Mysuru region.

He further said that ministerial positions and power-sharing in the government should reflect population-based representation and provide equal opportunities to backward and marginalized communities. A letter conveying these demands had also been sent to Rahul Gandhi.

The meeting was attended by district president Yogesh Uppar, Kumbara Sangha president H.S. Prakash, Madivala Sangha district president Ravinandan, and several community leaders including Shivanna, Chayadevi, Kendaganna, Mahadevu, Nagaraj, Channappa, Santosh, Manjushetty, Hemanth, Mahendra, Lokesh Madapura, Revanna, Prabhu, Shekhar, Madan and Ramesh.

Villagers protest against merger of Govt schools in Hunsur Taluk

MYSURU

Villagers from Hosur Kodagu Colony, Ummatturu and Ambedkar Nagar, under the leadership of the All India Democratic Students' Organisation (AIDSO), staged a protest against the proposed conversion of Gurupura Government School in Hunsur taluk into a KPS Magnet School. The move is likely to result in the merger of more than ten nearby government schools.

Addressing the protest, Sunil, a member of the Public Education Protection Committee, alleged that instead of ensuring education for children from poor families, the government was promoting the commercialization of education. He said that under the KPS Magnet School scheme, rural schools were being closed and public education was gradually being handed over to private companies through outsourcing arrangements.

He pointed out that universal access to education had been achieved through the struggles of reformers such as Ishwar Chandra Vidyasagar, Jyotirao Phule, Savitribai Phule and Kudmul Ranga Rao. Closing government schools, he said, was an insult to their legacy and would push the future of poor children into darkness. He also termed the policy anti-people and warned villagers to remain vigilant against attempts to secure consent for school closures through misleading methods, as allegedly happened in Ramanagara and Arasikere taluks.

Acting on a detailed representation submitted by Yaduveer, and following sustained follow-up efforts, Union Minister for Culture and Tourism, Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, has officially informed that the Madikeri Palace has been declared a protected monument under the Ancient Monuments and Archaeological Sites and Remains Act, 1958.

In his communication, the Union Minister stated that the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI) is actively examining various possibilities for the integrated development of the palace complex. Among the proposals under consideration is the establishment of a modern Site Museum featuring digital and interactive exhibits aimed at enhancing visitor experience and encouraging greater public engagement. The initiative is expected to showcase Kodagu's glorious history and cultural legacy in a dynamic and contemporary manner.

The development follows a comprehensive memorandum submitted by Yaduveer to the Central Government on March 18, 2025, in which he strongly advocated granting protected monument status to the Madikeri Palace and establishing a museum within the historic premises.

Recognising the immense historical and cultural significance of the palace, the MP has consistently pursued the matter with the Central Government and senior ASI officials. As a result of these efforts, senior ASI authorities, in coordination with the district administration, have already conducted a site inspection, and several suggestions put forward by the Member of Parliament have been taken into consideration for future development plans.

Expressing his happiness over the positive development, he said that a long-pending aspiration relating to the conservation and enhancement of the Madikeri Palace was finally moving towards reality. He reiterated his commitment to transforming the palace into a premier heritage and tourism destination that reflects Kodagu's glorious past while creating educational, cultural and tourism opportunities for future generations.

The initiative marks a major milestone in safeguarding one of Karnataka's most important heritage landmarks. It also stands as a testament to Wadiyar's sustained efforts to bring national attention and investment to the region's invaluable cultural assets, ensuring that Kodagu's rich legacy is preserved and celebrated for generations to come.

DK'S DREAM TEAM TAKES SHAPE

Who's in, who's rising, and who could become deputy CMs?

As D.K. Shivakumar gets ready to assume office as Karnataka's next Chief Minister, intense speculation surrounds the composition of his maiden cabinet. If party sources are to be believed, the new government is likely to reflect a delicate blend of caste representation, regional balance, experience and youthful energy.

One of the most discussed proposals is the appointment of multiple Deputy Chief Ministers, a move aimed at accommodating influential communities and power centres within the Congress.

Among the frontrunners for Deputy Chief Minister posts are senior Lingayat leader M.B. Patil, whose elevation could help the Congress consolidate support among Lingayats. Housing Minister Zameer Ahmed Khan is also said to be a strong contender, enjoying support from influential leaders in the Siddaramaiah camp. IT-BT Minister Priyank Kharge is another name gaining momentum, with reports suggesting that Shivakumar himself is keen on rewarding the young leader with a larger role in the government.

If the party ultimately goes ahead with a three or four-Deputy CM formula, these leaders are widely expected to be among the principal beneficiaries.

For cabinet berths, several familiar faces are likely to retain their positions. Dinesh Gundu Rao, Krishna Byre Gowda and K.J. George are expected to continue in the ministry owing to their administrative experience and political importance.

At the same time, the Congress high command is reportedly pushing for a major generational shift. Rahul Gandhi is understood to favour the induction of younger legislators and first-time ministers, resulting in the inclusion of several new faces.

From the Mysuru region, Narasimharaja MLA Tanveer Sait is considered a strong contender for a cabinet berth. MLC Yathindra Siddaramaiah is also tipped for induction, reflecting the party's emphasis on youth and continuity.

In Chamarajanagar district, MLA C. Puttarangashetty is believed to be among the frontrunners for ministerial office, while Malavalli MLA P.M. Narendraswamy is emerging as a possible representative from Mandya district.

A surprise inclusion could come in the form of Roopa Shashidhar, daughter of senior leader K.H. Muniyappa, who is reportedly being considered under the women's quota. Veteran Congress leader R.V. Deshpande is also said to be in contention for a comeback.

However, the future of some sitting ministers remains uncertain. Lakshmi Hebbalkar and Home Minister G. Parameshwara are facing stiff competition from rival aspirants, while several senior leaders continue to lobby aggressively in New Delhi and Bengaluru.

With competing caste interests, regional demands and generational aspirations converging at one point, cabinet formation is shaping up to be D.K. Shivakumar's first and perhaps most crucial political challenge. The final list will not only determine the composition of the government but also define the Congress power structure in Karnataka for years to come.

D.K. Shivakumar's biggest political test begins now

SHYAM SUNDAR VATTAM
MYSURU

The long-cherished dream of D.K. Shivakumar to occupy the Chief Minister's chair has finally become a reality. But the road ahead for the Congress strongman may be far more challenging than the battle he fought to get there.

For years, Shivakumar functioned as the party's chief troubleshooter and mass mobiliser, enjoying considerable freedom in political manoeuvring while Siddaramaiah steered the government. As Chief Minister, however, the rules of the game change dramatically. The fiery politician known for his aggressive style must now wear the mantle of restraint, responsibility and statesmanship.

The first challenge comes from within the corridors of power itself. Unlike in the past, every major decision will be closely watched by the Congress high command, senior ministers and Siddaramaiah loyalists. The Chief Minister's chair may carry authority, but it also comes with limitations. Shivakumar can no longer afford off-the-cuff remarks or political outbursts. Every word and action will be scrutinised by allies, opponents and the public alike.

Managing the Opposition will be another crucial test. While Siddaramaiah often launched blistering attacks on his political rivals, he simultaneously maintained cordial personal relationships across party lines. That political balance helped ensure smoother legislative functioning. Shivakumar must now master that delicate art of combining firmness with diplomacy.

Perhaps the biggest headache could emerge from his own party legislators. Congress MLAs have repeatedly expressed frustration over shrinking development funds for their constituencies. The massive financial commitment towards the government's five guarantee schemes has significantly reduced the fiscal space available for local development works. With elections never too far away, legislators are likely to intensify pressure on the government for greater allocations.

The Congress high command, too, will expect Shivakumar to deliver politically. National leaders will look to Karnataka as a key laboratory for future electoral battles. The Chief Minister will be expected not only to govern effectively but also to strengthen the party's organisational machinery ahead of crucial elections.

Above all stands the ultimate judge—the people of Karnataka. After years of speculation, political bargaining and a high-profile leadership transition, public expectations from Shivakumar are enormous. Citizens will judge him not by his political struggles but by his administrative performance.

The next 24 months could therefore determine not only Shivakumar's legacy but also the Congress party's electoral fortunes. The crown he has finally won may well prove to be a crown of thorns, demanding patience, political skill and exceptional leadership at every step.

Silk Board Junction drowns again

Silk Board floods again as rains waterlog Bengaluru's worst junction. Garbage-choked drains, infrastructure work worsens snarls; pedestrians walk muddy paths.

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Bengaluru motorists are once again cursing Silk Board junction after heavy rains turned the area into a muddy, waterlogged mess, triggering massive traffic snarls despite the recent inauguration of the double-decker flyover. On Friday evening, torrential rain flooded the stretch near Silk Board Metro station, forcing vehicles to crawl through knee-deep water during peak hours, echoing a similar scene from Thursday.

The waterlogging issue at Silk Board is nothing new. Last May, pre-monsoon showers submerged the junction and even flooded the Metro station, with Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA) officials blaming Metro construction and blocked storm-water drains. A year later, commuters report little improvement,just 30 minutes of heavy rain on Thursday was enough to immobilise traffic for hours across Silk Board, Roopena Agrahara, Bommanahalli and surrounding national highway stretches.

According to officials, Silk Board receives rainwater from nearly 20 lakes, including Madiwala, and the existing stormwater drain network cannot handle the volume during intense rainfall. Compounding the problem, over 40 tonnes of garbage including plastic bottles, clothes and general waste have choked the drains. GBA chief engineer SV Rajesh confirmed that tonnes of waste were removed from drains near Silk Board, worsening flooding.

GBA has begun expanding the drain capacity from 1.5m to 3.5m using steel girders, with completion expected by June-end. An L-shaped culvert is being constructed to divert water toward HSR Layout. However, ongoing work has caused road closures and diversions, adding to commuter frustration. Officials also note that past infrastructure projects including the NHAI flyover, Metro construction and double-decker flyover pillars have disrupted natural drainage patterns.

The stormwater drain work has created safety hazards for pedestrians accessing the Yellow Line Metro station and BMTC bus stand. With no dedicated pedestrian pathway, commuters walk 300 metres on muddy, garbage-strewn roads.

Passenger Shubashree described it as both a safety and health hazard, while techie Karthik M blamed lack of civic sense and official apathy for the persistent mess.

Until drainage upgrades are completed and civic sense improves, Silk Board will remain Bengaluru's most cursed junction whenever rain falls.

The lack of civic sense among the people and the complete negligence of the authorities are the reason why Silk Board Junction has reached its present state, blamed a techie.

Rain havoc: Man killed after wall crashes on auto

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Heavy rain accompanied by strong winds on Friday evening turned fatal for an autorickshaw driver after a compound wall of a private club collapsed on his vehicle in West Bengaluru. According to the preliminary investigation by Vijayanagar police, Shivaboraiah, a resident of Gangondanahalli, had parked his autorickshaw by the roadside near Vijayanagar Club in Hampinagar when the incident occurred around 7.40pm. Amid heavy rain, the club's compound wall, estimated to be seven to eight feet high, suddenly collapsed. The massive wall reportedly fell on the parked auto, trapping Shivaboraiah inside. He was crushed between the mangled vehicle and the debris, and died on the spot. Shocked bystanders immediately alerted police, fire department, and emergency services personnel. Rescue teams rushed to the scene and began clearing the debris, but Shivaboraiah was already dead. A senior police officer said the victim's family had been informed. A case will be registered based on the complaint filed by the family.

Investigation is under way to ascertain what caused the wall to collapse. This is the second wall collapse incident being reported in the city in the last one month.

The wall collapse was one of several incidents reported from across the city as the downpour left a trail of disruption in many areas. Ahead of the likely advance of southwest monsoon over Karnataka, intense pre-monsoon thundershowers swept across central and southwest Bengaluru Friday evening, flooding major roads and junctions, uprooting trees, and throwing traffic out of gear.According to India Meteorological Department (IMD), Bengaluru city saw 46mm of rainfall while HAL airport area received 20.8mm till 8.30 pm. IMD officials said rain is likely to intensify in the coming days as monsoon strengthens over southern peninsula and is expected to advance further.

'Change is always good': Moily backs K'taka cabinet reshuffle

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Congress leader M Veerappa Moily said changes in the Karnataka Cabinet were necessary to help the party overcome anti-incumbency, adding that the induction of new faces would also create opportunities for aspiring legislators.

Moily said, change is always good, new faces will have to come, because there are a number of aspiring MLAs and MLCs who would like to serve in the Government, and even if Siddaramaiah were to continue as a Chief Minister, he would have made a change and all these Ministers would have continued. So, change is good for the Party, and people will also like.

The same Ministers and same faces will have an anti-incumbency issue. With the new faces coming into the Ministry, this will be resolved. He said, a refreshed Cabinet would help the government maintain public support and improve administrative efficiency under outgoing chief minister Siddaramaiah. On Rajya Sabha representation from Karnataka, Moily stressed the need for experienced leaders, saying the Congress must ensure effective representation at the national level.

We need very effective representation in the Rajya Sabha because now we are not in power in Delhi, but at the same time, we require people who can very effectively handle the situation on behalf of the Congress Party and the country. CITU STAGES MEGA PROTEST

Labor group demands higher minimum wages now

VIJAYAPURA

Members of the Center of Indian Trade Unions (CITU) staged a protest outside the District Collector's office, sub mitting a formal petition addressed to the Chief Minister. The workers are demanding a monthly minimum wage of Rs. 36,000, changes to state labor codes, and permanent legal protections for contract laborers.

CITU District Coordinator Lakshman Handral acknowledged the state government's May 22 notification, which streamlined wages into three uniform zones to benefit over one crore workers. However, Handral argued that the current hike fails to meet historical Supreme Court standards adjusted for today's high cost of living. The group also strongly condemned recent central agency actions targeting former Kerala Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan.

Co-Convenor Suresh G.B. pointed out major flaws in the current policy. He explained that by implementing the new wages from May 2026 instead of retroactively from April 2025, the government has unfairly deprived workers of ma ssive back-pay arrears.

Furthermore, the union expressed deep anger over the exclusion of 19 major industries, including garments, bidi, and handlooms. Leaders emphasized that this exclusion directly hurts a massive population of underpaid women workers and scheme employees who deserve immediate coverage.

The union warned the state government to strictly enforce the revised wage orders and resist any intense pressure from corporate employers.

Prominent union leaders, including Narayana Badigera, Lal Ahmed Sheikh, and several representatives from the Gram Panchayat Employees' Association, attended the protest to show their solidarity.

WB offers door-step service to fill 'Annapurna' forms

West Bengal government will assist beneficiaries at home to complete Annapurna Yojana applications without difficulty

KOLKATA

Amid growing speculation regarding the complexity of the 12-page application form for the Annapurna Yojana, West Bengal Chief Minister Suvendu Adhikari on Saturday sought to reassure beneficiaries by announcing that government staff would visit homes to help eligible women complete the enrollment process.

The Chief Minister made the statement while speaking to reporters on the sidelines of the inauguration of a cervical cancer vaccination camp in Bidhannagar, located on the outskirts of Kolkata. He emphasized that there was no reason for beneficiaries to be concerned about the application procedure and urged people not to believe rumors circulating about the scheme.

The Annapurna Yojana provides a monthly financial allowance of Rs 3,000 to eligible women across the state. According to Adhikari, the government is committed to ensuring that all deserving beneficiaries receive the financial support without facing unnecessary hurdles.

Addressing concerns over the lengthy application form, the Chief Minister said government representatives would personally visit households to assist women in completing the paperwork. He reiterated that eligible recipients would not be deprived of the benefits due to procedural difficulties.

There is no need to pay attention to speculation or misinformation regarding the application process. The government will ensure that every genuine beneficiary receives the financial assistance, Adhikari said. He also stressed that strict verification measures would be implemented to prevent ineligible individuals from receiving benefits under the scheme.

The Chief Minister further announced that the first phase of fund disbursement under the Annapurna Yojana would begin on June 3. The financial assistance will be transferred directly into the bank accounts of beneficiaries through a direct benefit transfer mechanism.

The Annapurna Yojana has replaced the earlier Lakshmir Bhandar scheme that was introduced by the previous Mamata Banerjee-led government. While beneficiaries of the previous scheme were initially expected to be automatically included under the new program, the state government later identified several ineligible recipients, including male individuals who had reportedly been receiving benefits.

Following the discovery of such irregularities, the government decided to introduce a detailed 12-page enrollment form to strengthen verification procedures. Officials believe the revised process will help ensure that financial assistance reaches only eligible women while improving transparency and accountability in the implementation of the welfare scheme.

Rahul Gandhi accused the government of undermining education through repeated examination disruptions and controversies.

RaGa blasts govt over exam failures

NEW DELHI

Leader of Opposition in the Lok Sabha, Rahul Gandhi, on Saturday launched a strong attack on the Central government, alleging that repeated failures in conducting major national examinations have severely damaged India's education system and affected the futures of millions of students.

His remarks came amid reports of technical disruptions during the Common University Entrance Test for Undergraduate admissions (CUET-UG) 2026. According to reports, examination centres in cities including Delhi and Bengaluru experienced technical glitches linked to systems operated by Tata Consultancy Services, resulting in difficulties for candidates appearing for the examination.

Following the disruptions, the National Testing Agency (NTA) announced compensatory time for affected students and postponed certain afternoon examination sessions to minimize the impact on candidates.The criticism also follows recent controversies surrounding the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET-UG) 2026 and concerns regarding the evaluation process of the Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) Class 12 examinations.

In a post on social media platform X, Gandhi accused the government of repeatedly failing students and questioned its claims about achievements in the education sector.

Referring to a series of examination-related controversies, he wrote that major examinations including NEET, CBSE assessments, Staff Selection Commission examinations, and CUET had faced serious issues. He alleged that despite official claims of transforming India into a global leader in education, authorities had failed to conduct even a single major examination with complete credibility and transparency.

Gandhi further warned that the younger generation, whose academic and professional futures depend on these examinations, would eventually hold the government accountable for the consequences of such failures.

The opposition leader's comments come in the wake of the cancellation of the NEET-UG 2026 examination following allegations of a paper leak. The decision affected nearly 24 lakh medical aspirants across the country who were seeking admission to undergraduate medical courses. The controversy sparked widespread debate over examination security and the integrity of competitive entrance tests.At the same time, the CBSE has faced criticism regarding the evaluation of Class 12 answer sheets after introducing a new digital On-Screen Marking system managed through an external private vendor.

BJP calls it 'shameful', Opposition hits back

NEW DELHI

A political row erupted after only the opening portion of Vande Mataram was played before the Governor's policy address in the Kerala Assembly. The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), on Saturday, called the incident shameful while the Opposition maintained that singing the full song cannot be enforced upon citizens.

Kerala Governor Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar on Friday had publicly confirmed that Lok Bhavan had insisted on the full rendition of Vande Mataram during the opening session of the Assembly. However, the Pinarayi Vijayan-led Left weighed in on the controversy by backing the existing convention of singing the truncated version.

Reacting on the same, BJP spokesperson Ajay Alok said: It is shameful, absolutely shameful. This is an insult to the spirit of the nation, an insult to the national song, and an insult to our Constitution.

The Central Government has taken this matter seriously and will ensure that henceforth, whenever Vande Mataram is sung, it will be sung in full, he added.

Alok stressed that just like the national anthem, singing the full national song will also be compulsory. BJP spokesperson Pratul Shah Deo blamed the appeasement politics of the Kerala government for not playing the full national song.

Asserting that Vande Mataram reflects the country's national consciousness, he said: If somebody does not play or sing the full national song, it will be an insult to the Centre's guidelines and people may also have to face punishment for this.

Delhi police bust ISI-linked terror network

NEW DELHI

The Delhi Police Special Cell on Saturday arrested nine individuals allegedly linked to a Pakistan- based intelligence and underworld network, while several others have been detained for questioning as part of an extensive counterterrorism operation.

According to investigators, nearly 600 individuals across different parts of the country were found to have been in contact with Pakistani gangster Shahzad Bhatti through various communication channels, particularly social media platforms. Authorities are now examining the nature of these interactions and their possible connection to a wider network.

Among those arrested are Sajid Mehboob Sheikh, also known as Arbaz Khan, who was apprehended in Kurla, Mumbai, and Tauqeer Rizwan Sheikh, who was arrested in the Mumbra area. Both suspects have been transported to Delhi for further interrogation and investigation.

Officials stated that the two men had allegedly received instructions to travel to the national capital, where they were expected to receive further directions regarding their assignments. Investigators claim that funds had also been arranged for their travel and operational activities.

The arrests were carried out during coordinated raids conducted in Kurla and Mumbra. Authorities believe the operation has exposed an alleged network involving Pakistan-based handlers and criminal elements with links to organized crime syndicates.

During the crackdown, the Special Cell reportedly recovered a substantial cache of weapons. Some of those arrested are said to be of Nepalese origin. Police sources indicated that the alleged module had been developed over an extended period and maintained connections with overseas operatives.

Investigators are also probing claims that the network had identified sensitive installations as potential targets. Sources familiar with the investigation indicated that locations such as nuclear facilities, airports, railway stations, and power plants were among the sites allegedly being monitored by the group.

Officials emphasized that the module had remained under surveillance for a considerable period before the arrests were made. Security agencies are now focusing on uncovering possible cross-border links, financial networks, communication channels, and the role of foreign-based handlers in directing the activities of the suspects.

The developments come at a time when Delhi remains on heightened alert following recent intelligence warnings regarding possible terror threats. Earlier this month, security agencies received alerts about potential attacks targeting important offices and crowded public areas through multiple methods, including improvised explosive devices, shootings, vehicle-based attacks, and coordinated strikes.

DEHRADUN

Three members of a family lost their lives and three others sustained injuries after the vehicle they were travelling in plunged into a 400–500 metre deep gorge in Uttarakhand's Chamoli district early on Saturday morning, officials said.

The accident took place at around 5:50 a.m. in the forest area near Lwani village. According to officials, the vehicle veered off the road and fell into a deep gorge, triggering an immediate rescue operation involving the police, disaster response teams and local administration.

Sub-Inspector Sandeep Devrani, in charge of the Dewal Police Outpost, informed the Station House Officer (SHO) of Tharali about the accident after receiving information that a vehicle had fallen into a gorge nearly 400–500 metres deep in the forest area of Lwani village.

Acting swiftly, the SHO of Tharali, accompanied by a police team, left for the accident site. At the same time, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate (SDM) of Tharali was informed about the incident, and a request was made to deploy a District Disaster Response Force (DDRF) team to assist in the rescue and relief efforts.

Officials said that after reaching the spot and conducting preliminary inquiries, it was found that Balbir Singh, a resident of Bank village in the Lohajung area, was returning to his native village following the death of a family member.

According to officials, the mortal remains of Bhajan Singh were being transported to the village in a private ambulance after he passed away in Dehradun while undergoing treatment. Meanwhile, Balbir Singh and several family members were travelling separately in another vehicle to attend the final rites and accompany the deceased back to their village.

A total of six people were travelling in the vehicle when the accident occurred. Preliminary findings suggest that the driver may have briefly fallen asleep while driving, causing the vehicle to lose control and plunge into the deep gorge. However, authorities are continuing their investigation to determine the exact cause of the accident.

The deceased have been identified as Balbir Singh (52), his wife Shanti Devi (48), and their son Anshu Bisht (18), all of whom died in the crash. The three injured passengers have been identified as Kavita Devi (32), Mayank Singh (8), and Roshni (18). DELHI RECONSTITUTES PANEL TO ENSURE SMOOTH KANWAR YATRA

Delhi govt has formed a new committee to ensure safe and efficient Kanwar Yatra arrangements.

NEW DELHI

Delhi Chief Minister Rekha Gupta has reconstituted the Kanwar Committee to ensure that the upcoming Kanwar Yatra is conducted in a smooth, safe, well-organised, and spiritually enriching manner.

The move is aimed at strengthening preparations for the annual pilgrimage during the holy month of Shravan, when thousands of devotees travel through the national capital.

According to an official statement issued on Saturday, Delhi Minister for Culture and Law Kapil Mishra has been appointed as the Chairperson of the committee. Five Members of the Legislative Assembly—Ajay Mahawar, Anil Sharma, Karnail Singh, Sanjay Goel, and Umang Bajaj—have been included as members to assist in overseeing arrangements and ensuring the successful conduct of the pilgrimage.

Chief Minister Gupta stated that the Delhi government is committed to providing improved and dignified facilities for Shiva devotees. She said special assistance would be extended to Kanwar camps to help them serve pilgrims more effectively during the religious event.

Highlighting recent improvements, Gupta noted that only 170 Kanwar camps had been approved in the capital in 2024. However, due to the government's simplified approval process, the number increased significantly to a record 374 camps in 2025. All registered camps were established across different parts of Delhi to accommodate the growing number of devotees participating in the yatra.

The Chief Minister also pointed out that the government had replaced the earlier tender-based funding mechanism with a more transparent system. Under the new arrangement, financial assistance ranging from Rs 50,000 to Rs 11 lakh is transferred directly into the bank accounts of registered organising committees through the Direct Benefit Transfer system. The measure was introduced to improve transparency and ensure timely support for camp organisers.The newly formed committee will focus on key areas such as route management, installation of quality waterproof tents, availability of medical services, uninterrupted electricity and water supply, and enhanced security arrangements. These measures are intended to ensure that devotees can undertake the pilgrimage safely and comfortably.

Gupta described the Kanwar Yatra as more than a traditional religious event, calling it a celebration of India's cultural heritage, public faith, and social harmony. She said the large gathering of Shiva devotees during Shravan reflects the country's cultural unity and spiritual traditions.

The Chief Minister further stated that arrangements for the Kanwar Yatra have evolved beyond routine administrative responsibilities and now represent a symbol of service and devotion in the national capital.

Vijay to visit Tiruchy east after poll sweep

CHENNAI

Tamil Nadu Chief Minister Vijay is expected to visit the Tiruchy East Assembly constituency on Monday to express gratitude to voters and interact with the public following his victory in the recently concluded Assembly elections, according to party sources.

The visit comes at a politically significant time, as the Election Commission is expected to announce a by-election for the constituency in the coming months. Political observers view the tour as an important effort to maintain the strong support base that helped Vijay and his party achieve a historic electoral success.

Vijay's party, the Tamilaga Vetri Kazhagam (TVK), emerged as the single largest party in the Tamil Nadu Assembly elections and subsequently formed the government with the support of its allies. The actor-turned-politician contested from two constituencies, Perambur and Tiruchy East, and secured victories in both seats.

After winning both constituencies, Vijay chose to retain the Perambur seat and resigned from Tiruchy East, making a by-election necessary. His upcoming visit is therefore being closely watched as the constituency prepares for another electoral contest.

According to sources, the Chief Minister will travel from Chennai to Tiruchy by a private aircraft and is scheduled to participate in a public event at a college ground within the constituency. During the visit, he is expected to thank voters for their overwhelming support and acknowledge their role in helping TVK come to power.

In the Assembly election, Vijay secured a decisive victory in Tiruchy East by polling 91,381 votes. He defeated his nearest rival, DMK candidate Inigo Irudayaraj, by a margin of 24,416 votes. Irudayaraj received 63,965 votes, while AIADMK candidate Rajasekaran finished third with 19,715 votes.

Political analysts believe the visit is aimed at strengthening the party's organisational structure in the constituency and motivating party workers ahead of the by-election. The contest is expected to draw significant attention because it will be regarded as the first major electoral test for the newly established Vijay-led government.

Chinese aircraft, ships detected near Taiwan

Taipei

Taiwan's Ministry of National Defence said it detected 16 Chinese military aircraft, eight naval vessels and three official ships operating around the island on Saturday. According to the ministry, all 16 aircraft crossed the median line and entered Taiwan's northern, southwestern and eastern Air Defense Identification Zone (ADIZ). Taiwan's armed forces monitored the activities and took necessary responses. A day earlier, Taiwan reported 10 Chinese aircraft, eight naval vessels and four official ships near its territory. The latest movement comes amid ongoing tensions over Taiwan, which China claims as part of its territory, while Taiwan continues to govern itself independently.

Neglect threatens future of industrial estate

Khyber Pakhtunkhwa

The Gadoon Amazai Industrial Estate (GAIE) in Pakistan's Khyber Pakhtunkhwa province is facing a severe crisis as industrialists warn that prolonged government neglect and rising costs are pushing businesses towards closure. According to source, several factories have already shut down, while many others are struggling to survive. Business leaders cited poor infrastructure, frequent power outages, gas shortages and the estate's remote location as major challenges. They also said transportation costs have risen sharply, increasing expenses for importing raw materials from Karachi and distributing finished products across the country. Industrialists fear the situation could further weaken manufacturing activity and threaten jobs if immediate support measures are not introduced.

Neglected dams deepen Karachi agri crisis

Karachi

Karachi's agricultural belt is facing a growing water crisis as years of poor maintenance and weak governance have left many rainwater dams in disrepair, affecting farming communities in Malir, Gadap and Bin Qasim Town. According to source, the decline of these dams has reduced water storage capacity and lowered groundwater levels, creating serious challenges for farmers. Experts noted that the region has 78 seasonal waterways that could help recharge groundwater if dams were restored and new reservoirs built. Environmentalists have called for the rehabilitation of over 50 dams to conserve rainwater, reduce flooding and support agriculture. Illegal sand mining, deforestation and silt accumulation have further damaged water resources, forcing many farmers to drill much deeper wells to access water.

'Trump betraying diplomacy for third time with excessive demands'

Tehran has rejected US demands to permanently forgo nuclear weapons and surrender control over the strategic waterway

TEHRAN

Mohsen Rezaei, an adviser to Iran Supreme Leader Mojtaba Khamenei, on Saturday accused US President Donald Trump of "betraying diplomacy for the third time" during ongoing negotiations between Washington and Tehran.

Rezaei claimed that the continued naval blockade around Iran and what he described as excessive US demands were damaging efforts to reach a peaceful settlement.

His remarks came a day after Trump announced that he would hold a meeting in the White House Situation Room to discuss the final details of a possible agreement with Iran. The US President also outlined several conditions that he said should be included in any future deal.

According to Trump, Iran must permanently agree not to develop or possess nuclear weapons. He also called for the immediate reopening of the Strait of Hormuz to unrestricted shipping traffic in both directions. In addition, Trump said all sea mines in the area should be removed or destroyed to ensure safe passage for commercial vessels.

The Strait of Hormuz remains one of the world's most important maritime routes, carrying a significant share of global energy supplies. However, the waterway continues to face disruptions as differences between the United States and Iran remain unresolved.

Reports indicate that ships travelling through the strait still face considerable security concerns. To reduce the risk of detection or targeting, some vessels have reportedly switched off their tracking systems while passing through the area.

The ongoing dispute has raised concerns among international markets because the Strait of Hormuz is a key route for oil and liquefied natural gas shipments. Analysts warn that prolonged tensions and restrictions on maritime traffic could affect global energy supplies and trade. Despite continued negotiations, major disagreements remain, leaving the prospects for a final agreement uncertain.

Finalising possible agreement with Iran: Trump

US President Donald Trump said he was finalising a possible agreement with Iran, though Tehran maintained that no final deal had been reached. Trump said Iran must permanently abandon nuclear weapons ambitions, reopen the Strait of Hormuz to unrestricted shipping, remove remaining sea mines, and allow maritime traffic to resume as the US naval blockade is lifted.

Global nations seek stronger security ties

MOSCOW

Leaders from developing nations called for inclusive global governance and collective action to address emerging challenges

Representatives from major countries of the Global South and East stressed the need for stronger international cooperation and a shared approach to global security during the 14th International Meeting of High Representatives Responsible for Security Issues held in the Moscow Region.

According to TV BRICS, the gathering brought together senior officials and policymakers from Russia, India, China, South Africa, Brazil, Kazakhstan, Vietnam and several other nations. Discussions focused on changes in the global order, technological progress and future security challenges.

A central theme of the meeting was the growing influence of developing countries in shaping a multipolar world. Participants highlighted the importance of equal dialogue, respect for national sovereignty and stronger multilateral institutions to deal with modern global issues.

Opening the forum, Russian Security Council Secretary Sergey Shoigu called for closer coordination among countries of the Global South and East. He also supported a greater role for the United Nations and promoted Russian initiatives aimed at strengthening cooperation across Eurasia while avoiding geopolitical confrontation.

India's National Security Advisor Ajit Doval said the world is witnessing major political, economic and technological changes. He noted that emerging economies are seeking a larger role in global decision-making and reiterated India's demand for United Nations reforms. Doval also stressed the importance of international cooperation against terrorism.

Chinese official Chen Wenqing reiterated support for multilateral cooperation, international law and global development. South Africa's Khumbudzo Ntshavheni stressed technology, cybersecurity, energy security and regional integration. Brazil's Celso Amorim called for cooperation instead of rival blocs, while Kazakhstan's Gizat Nurdauletov urged new frameworks for water security, digital governance and AI. Delegates agreed that inclusive institutions, balanced partnerships and shared responsibility are vital for global stability.

Trump faces tough choice over Mideast conflict

WASHINGTON DC

Retired US Army Colonel and geopolitical analyst Douglas Macgregor has said that US President Donald Trump faces a difficult political decision regarding continued American involvement in the Persian Gulf and the wider Middle East conflict.

Macgregor argued that most Americans are not closely following developments in the region and would likely support an immediate halt to military operations if Trump chose that path. He said public concern could increase only if instability in the region begins affecting the US economy and energy supplies.

Macgregor warned that disruptions in the Persian Gulf could create serious challenges for the United States. Referring to comments from figures in the oil and gas industry, he claimed that prolonged instability could place pressure on strategic petroleum reserves and affect states dependent on imported oil. He pointed out that California relies significantly on oil supplies linked to the Gulf region.

According to Macgregor, Trump could justify ending military operations by stressing the need to restore stability and ensure the free flow of commercial shipping through the Persian Gulf. He suggested that many Americans and international partners would support such a decision and move on without major opposition.

However, Macgregor claimed that influential pro-Israel groups and wealthy supporters in the United States might strongly oppose any move seen as reducing support for Israel. He argued that some of these groups could threaten to withdraw political backing if Trump changed course on the conflict.

Macgregor said Netanyahu favours continuing pressure on Iran and sees strategic benefits in the conflict. He argued Trump's challenge is whether to distance US policy from Israel's goals, adding there is little sign of such a move currently.

US TERROR LABEL SPARKS DEBATE IN BRAZIL

SÃO PAULO

The United States' decision to classify Brazil's two largest criminal organisations, PCC and Comando Vermelho (CV), as foreign terrorist organisations has sparked political debate in Brazil, with critics raising concerns about its potential impact on the country's internal affairs.

The designation, announced by the US State Department, is expected to take effect on June 5. It will place both groups on the list of "Specially Designated Global Terrorists," allowing the US government to impose sanctions and strengthen international enforcement measures against them.

Commenting on the move during the Boa Noite 247 programme, journalist and Brasil 247 special editor in Brasília, Ricardo Amaral, described the decision as "Tariff Hike 2.0." He argued that the measure appeared to be linked more to broader geopolitical and political objectives than to efforts aimed solely at combating organised crime.

According to Amaral, the designation is unlikely to significantly affect criminal operations within Brazil. He said that tackling organised crime depends mainly on Brazilian institutions, including police forces, financial intelligence agencies and coordinated public policies designed to dismantle criminal networks.

He stressed that effective crime-fighting requires a comprehensive approach that combines law enforcement measures with social development programmes and a stronger government presence in vulnerable communities. Amaral argued that addressing the root causes of organised crime requires long-term institutional efforts rather than external classifications.

India strengthens defence ties with global strategic partners

SINGAPORE

India continued its high-level defence diplomacy at the Shangri-La Dialogue in Singapore, with Defence Secretary Rajesh Kumar Singh holding a series of bilateral meetings with senior officials from the Netherlands, Australia, the European Union and Canada.

The discussions focused on expanding defence cooperation, strengthening military ties and exploring opportunities for defence industrial collaboration with key international partners.

During his meeting with Dutch Defence Minister Dilan Yesilgoz-Zegerius, Singh discussed ways to enhance bilateral defence cooperation and deepen military-to-military engagement. Both sides also explored possibilities for cooperation in the defence industry, reflecting the growing strategic partnership between India and the Netherlands.

Singh also met Australian Defence Secretary Meghan Quinn. The two sides reviewed progress under the India-Australia Comprehensive Strategic Partnership and discussed future high-level engagements. They explored new areas for defence cooperation based on shared strategic interests.

In separate talks with European Union officials, including Secretary General of the European External Action Service Belen Martinez Carbonell and Deputy Chair of the EU Military Committee Enrico Barduani, Singh discussed shared security concerns and ways to deepen defence and strategic cooperation between India and the EU.

Earlier, Singh paid tribute at the Kranji War Memorial, laying a wreath in honour of soldiers who sacrificed their lives during the World Wars. The gesture highlighted the close historical ties between India and Singapore.

On the sidelines of the dialogue, Singh also met Canadian defence official Kelvin Brosseau. Both sides discussed measures to strengthen India-Canada defence relations and identified opportunities for greater cooperation across key sectors.

The meetings underscored India's commitment to expanding international defence partnerships, enhancing strategic engagement and promoting cooperation on regional and global security challenges through dialogue and collaboration.

Curfew worsens humanitarian crisis in Mashkay

BALOCHISTAN

Residents of Mashkay town in Balochistan's Awaran district are facing severe difficulties as a curfew and strict movement restrictions imposed by Pakistani security forces have continued for a second week.

Locals report shortages of food, medicines, and other essential supplies, while daily life and economic activities have been significantly disrupted. Many residents who rely on daily wages and local trade have been unable to work, increasing financial hardship. Concerns have also emerged over healthcare access, with patients reportedly struggling to reach hospitals and clinics for urgent treatment. Similar issues have been reported in Noshki and Zehri, where security restrictions have affected transport, trade, and medical services. Residents continue to seek relief as uncertainty and hardship persist across the affected communities.

Child abuse cases rise within trusted circles of B'desh

DHAKA

Bangladesh is witnessing a worrying increase in violence against children, with many cases involving people known to the victims, according to recent reports and child rights groups. The issue has gained attention following two shocking incidents. In Dhaka's Pallabi area, an eight-year-old child was allegedly raped and murdered, with the body later found in a neighbour's home. In Netrokona district, an 11-year-old girl was reportedly subjected to sexual assault and was found to be seven months pregnant.

A report by child rights organisation Shishurai Shob, based on news reports published in 2025, found that nine out of ten offenders were known to the victims. Immediate neighbours accounted for 40.58 per cent of reported rape cases, followed by acquaintances, teachers or religious instructors, and close relatives. Strangers were responsible for less than 10 per cent of the cases.

The report also revealed that nearly two-thirds of child murders and more than half of sexual abuse cases occurred within homes or family environments. Child rights activists said the findings challenge the common belief that children are mainly at risk from strangers.

Data released by Dhaka-based Ain o Salish Kendra (ASK) showed that between January and April, 56 of 81 rape victims of known age were children between zero and 12 years old. During the same period, 63 of 115 children killed were also in the same age group.

CAVE RESCUE

4 rescued from flooded Laos cave

BANGKOK

Rescue teams successfully brought four more people out of a flooded cave in Laos on Saturday, while the search continued for two others who remain missing after being trapped underground for more than a week.

The rescued individuals were among seven Lao nationals who entered a cave in Xaisomboun province to search for gold. Rising floodwaters blocked the cave's exit, leaving the group stranded inside. One man had already been rescued late on Friday, bringing the total number of people rescued to five.

Thai cave diver Kengkard Bongkawong, who is involved in the operation, confirmed through a Facebook post that all four trapped survivors had safely emerged from the cave on Saturday. Video footage released by volunteer rescuers showed the men being escorted out wearing muddy clothes and head-mounted flashlights after their difficult ordeal.

The five survivors were located by rescue teams on Wednesday, but dangerous conditions inside the cave delayed efforts to bring them to safety. Rescue officials said operations would continue until the remaining two missing individuals are found.

The rescue mission has attracted international support. A team of volunteer rescuers from neighbouring Thailand joined the operation last Sunday. Additional experts and divers from Finland, France, Indonesia, Malaysia, Japan and Australia have since arrived to assist with the challenging mission.

Officials said flooding and challenging underwater routes have complicated the rescue operation. Despite the risks, international teams, including veterans of Thailand's 2018 Tham Luang cave rescue, continue searching for the two missing people. Authorities remain hopeful of locating and safely rescuing them.

Spice Jet faces GST demand, registration cancellation threat amid

New Delhi

Low-cost airline Spice Jet has been served a GST demand of Rs 124.65 crore by tax authorities for allegedly failing to file returns on time over several months. The demand follows a provisional assessment under the CGST and SGST Acts, 2017. Officials have also issued a show-cause notice proposing cancellation of the airline's GST registration due to repeated delays and compliance lapses. The assessment includes tax demands for November through March. Authorities warned that further action could follow if pending returns are not filed promptly. Meanwhile, Spice Jet continues to face financial pressure, reporting a quarterly net loss of Rs 621 crore and declining revenue.

CCPA fines Vajiram and Ravi over misleading advertisements

New Delhi

The Central Consumer Protection Authority (CCPA) has imposed a penalty of Rs 7 lakh on Vajiram and Ravi IAS Study Centre for publishing misleading advertisements. According to the consumer watchdog, the institute prominently showcased successful UPSC Civil Services Examination 2023 candidates without clearly disclosing the specific courses they had attended. The authority found that many featured candidates had only participated in the Interview Guidance Programme, which begins after clearing the Preliminary and Mains stages independently. CCPA said the omission created a false impression that the candidates were products of its full coaching programmes. The regulator continues to crack down on misleading practices in the coaching sector.

Centre withdraws sugarcane draft after stakeholder feedback

New Delhi

The Centre's decision to withdraw the draft Sugarcane (Control) Order, 2026 for fresh review has been welcomed by Minister of State (Independent Charge) for Skill Development and Entrepreneurship Jayant Singh. He said the move reflects a consultative and dialogue-based policymaking approach, taking into account feedback from farmers, the jaggery and khandsari industry, and other stakeholders. The draft was withdrawn after consultations with state governments and ministries. Officials said the order will be revised before further action. The government had earlier approved a 2.81 per cent hike in the fair and remunerative price of sugarcane for the 2026–27 season, aimed at supporting farmers' incomes and recovery-based pricing adjustments.

NITI Aayog calls semiconductor self-reliance strategic priority

New Delhi

NITI Aayog has termed India's semiconductor self-reliance drive a strategic imperative for realizing the Viksit Bharat vision. It said reducing dependence on imported chips is crucial for economic security, technological sovereignty, and sustained industrial growth. Semiconductors are vital for sectors such as artificial intelligence, defence, telecommunications, and advanced manufacturing. Its roadmap targets a $120–150 billion semiconductor value chain by 2035 through public investment and global partnerships, enhancing domestic capabilities.

Centre approves first PM-SETU plan for Visakhapatnam ITIs

The Centre has approved the first Strategic Investment Plan under PM-SETU, marking a major milestone in skill development reforms.

NEW DELHI

The National Steering Committee (NSC) has approved the Strategic Investment Plan (SIP) for the Visakhapatnam Industrial Training Institute (ITI) Cluster in Andhra Pradesh, marking the first proposal to receive clearance under the Pradhan Mantri Skilling and Employability Transformation through Upgraded ITIs (PM-SETU) scheme.

The proposal was submitted by ArcelorMittal Nippon Steel India (AM/NS India), making Andhra Pradesh the first state to operationalise an industry partnership under the flagship programme by onboarding an Anchor Industry Partner (AIP). The approval was granted during the third meeting of the National Steering Committee convened by the Ministry of Skill Development and Entrepreneurship (MSDE).

Officials said the development represents a major step

3rd National Steering Committee
for PM-SETU
(Pradhan Mantri Skilling and Employability Transformation through Upgraded ITIs)

toward implementing the PM-SETU vision of transforming government-run ITIs into industry-managed, outcome-oriented institutions. The initiative aims to strengthen vocational education through closer collaboration between industry and state governments.

The meeting was chaired by MSDE Secretary Debashree Mukherjee and attended by Director General of Training Dilip Kumar, along with senior representatives from central ministries, participating state governments, industry bodies and development partners.

According to the ministry, the approval of the Visakhapatnam cluster is a significant milestone in operationalising the industry-led Hub-and-Spoke model envisaged under PM-SETU. The model is expected to enhance training quality, modernise infrastructure and improve employment opportunities for students. Officials believe the project can serve as a model for other states seeking greater industry participation in skill development.

The committee also reviewed the overall progress of PM-SETU implementation across states. Discussions focused on increasing industry involvement, strengthening governance mechanisms, improving the financial sustainability of special purpose vehicles (SPVs), and accelerating project execution.

PM-SETU, with a total outlay of Rs 60,000 crore, aims to transform 1,000 government ITIs across the country through industry-led reforms and improved employability outcomes.

- First PM-SETU investment plan approved
- Visakhapatnam ITI cluster gets clearance
- Andhra Pradesh leads industry partnership
- AM/NS India joins as anchor
- Skill development reforms gain momentum

El Nino threatens inflation outlook despite strong buffers

NEW DELHI

The Finance Ministry warned that El Nino could fuel inflation and slow growth, though strong food stocks and reservoir levels provide a cushion

The Finance Ministry has cautioned that the possible development of El Nino conditions during the 2026 monsoon season could intensify existing inflationary pressures and affect economic activity, even as strong food grain stocks and healthy reservoir levels provide some protection against potential disruptions.

According to the ministry's Monthly Economic Review for May, deficient rainfall resulting from El Nino could quickly impact food inflation, rural demand and overall economic growth. The report noted that these risks come at a time when global energy prices remain elevated, adding to inflationary concerns.

The review, however, highlighted several positive indicators. Food grain buffer stocks are currently at comfortable levels, with rice and wheat stocks held by the Food Corporation of India and state agencies reaching 817.53 lakh tonnes at the end of April 2026. Reservoir storage levels were also strong, standing at 123.86 per cent of the decadal average ahead of the monsoon season.

Agricultural activity has shown encouraging signs, with summer crop sowing expanding to 83.08 lakh hectares compared to 80.01 lakh hectares during the same period last year. These factors are expected to provide some resilience against possible weather-related disruptions.

The India Meteorological Department has indicated a likely transition from ENSO-neutral conditions to El Nino during the 2026 monsoon season. Overall rainfall is projected at around 92 per cent of the Long Period Average, though there remains a significant possibility of below-normal rainfall depending on interactions with other climatic factors.

The review noted that rice production has historically remained relatively stable during strong El Nino years due to extensive irrigation coverage. However, pulses and oilseeds, which are largely cultivated in rainfed areas, remain vulnerable to rainfall deficiencies.

While domestic automobile sales continue to show robust growth across segments, a decline in air passenger traffic and concerns over a weaker monsoon suggest that consumption demand may face challenges in the months ahead.

FinMin flags risks amid India's cautious resilience

NEW DELHI

India's macroeconomic indicators in May reflect "cautious resilience," supported by strong services exports, adequate foreign exchange reserves and a stable labor market, according to the Finance Ministry's Monthly Economic Review. However, it cautioned that sustained policy vigilance is required amid rising global and domestic risks.

The report said elevated global energy prices, a weakening rupee, rising upstream cost pressures and the possibility of a below-normal monsoon could collectively strain inflation dynamics and growth prospects. It stressed the need for agility across monetary, fiscal and structural policies to ensure inflation remains anchored while sustaining economic momentum.

The ministry highlighted that the West Asia conflict has emerged as a major disruption to the global recovery. It has increased energy, transportation and logistics costs, triggering renewed inflationary pressures and raising concerns about stagflation in several economies.

Despite external headwinds, India's economy maintained growth momentum in April 2026. High-frequency indicators such as e-way bill generation, PMI readings and electricity consumption remained in expansionary territory, signaling continued domestic demand strength. However, moderation in the Eight Core Industries Index and fuel consumption indicates that global pressures are beginning to impact select sectors.

Inflation trends showed a clear divergence. Retail inflation edged up marginally to 3.48 per cent, remaining below the RBI's target, while wholesale inflation surged to 8.3 per cent due to higher energy prices, currency depreciation and base effects.

The Delhi High Court upheld the rejection of Pernod Ricard's liquor licence applications, citing pending criminal proceedings.

Delhi High Court rejects Pernod Ricard licence plea

NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court has dismissed a petition filed by French liquor major Pernod Ricard challenging the rejection of its wholesale liquor licence applications, holding that the company currently has a "criminal background" under the provisions of the Delhi Excise Act and is therefore ineligible for an L-1 licence.

Justice Purushaindra Kumar Kaurav upheld the decisions of the Excise Commissioner and the Financial Commissioner, who had denied the company's applications due to its involvement in ongoing criminal proceedings related to the alleged Delhi excise policy scam.

The court observed that the authorities acted within the framework of the law and that their decision-making process was neither arbitrary nor violative of constitutional principles. It ruled that the existence of pending prosecution against the company was sufficient to attract disqualification under Section 13(1)(c) of the Delhi Excise Act.

Clarifying the interpretation of the provision, the court stated that the requirement of not being convicted of a criminal offence is not the only criterion for determining whether an applicant has a criminal background. According to the judgment, the expression "has no criminal background" must be read alongside the condition of having no conviction, rather than as an alternative requirement.

Pernod Ricard had argued that the law only disqualifies applicants who have been convicted of offences and that pending criminal proceedings should not be treated as proof of a criminal background. The company contended that the authorities had expanded the scope of the law beyond its intended meaning.

However, the Delhi government defended the licence rejection, citing the ongoing prosecution initiated by the Enforcement Directorate in a money laundering case linked to alleged irregularities in the now-scrapped excise policy.

While dismissing the plea, the High Court granted liberty to the company to submit a fresh application if the status of the criminal proceedings changes in the future.

Earlier this month, the Competition Commission of India also ordered an antitrust investigation into Pernod Ricard over alleged exclusive arrangements with liquor retailers in Delhi.

Mid, small caps favored on India's strong macros

NEW DELHI

A neutral stance on Indian equities remains appropriate, with a relative overweight position on mid- and small-cap segments due to India's macroeconomic resilience, according to a report by Motilal Oswal Private Wealth.

The report recommends an asset allocation mix of around 50 per cent in hybrid or large-cap strategies, 40 per cent in small- and mid-cap equities (SMIDs), and 10 per cent in global exposure. It suggests a lump-sum approach for hybrid strategies, while advising staggered investments in pure equity-oriented portfolios.

Despite recent underperformance compared to several global markets, Indian equities continue to benefit from a stable domestic macroeconomic environment. The report noted that SMIDs have shown stronger relative performance, outperforming large caps since the onset of geopolitical tensions in the Middle East.

On the fixed-income side, the outlook remains cautious, with interest rates expected to stay elevated for longer. The Reserve Bank of India has indicated a pause in its rate-cut cycle, while global inflation risks persist due to higher crude oil prices and currency fluctuations.

The report advises maintaining cash-flow-driven accrual strategies across the credit spectrum. It also warns that renewed pressure on oil prices or the rupee could push bond yields higher.

India's Russian crude strategy seen geopolitically sound move

NEW DELHI

India's continued purchase of discounted Russian crude oil is "on the right track," according to geopolitical risk advisor Colonel Douglas Macgregor (retired), who said the strategy reflects pragmatic energy security thinking amid global volatility.

Speaking in an interview with ANI, Macgregor noted that India's approach helps shield its economy from potential disruptions in global oil supply chains, particularly those linked to escalating tensions in West Asia. He said discounted Russian crude provides both economic relief and strategic flexibility in managing inflationary pressures and external shocks.

He highlighted that global energy markets are currently facing heightened uncertainty due to geopolitical conflicts, which have increased transportation, insurance and crude price volatility. In this context, India's ability to secure lower-cost crude imports strengthens its macroeconomic stability and helps moderate domestic fuel prices.

Macgregor further said that India's energy strategy reflects a broader shift toward resource sovereignty, where nations priorities affordability and supply security over rigid geopolitical alignments. He added that such diversification of supply sources is increasingly becoming a key feature of global energy policy.

India has emerged as one of the largest buyers of discounted Russian crude since 2022, taking advantage of price differentials compared to global benchmarks. The move has been credited by analysts with helping control domestic inflation and maintaining stability in fuel retail prices despite global market turbulence.

However, the strategy has also attracted international scrutiny, with concerns raised over potential secondary sanctions and geopolitical balancing. Despite this, India has maintained that its energy imports are driven by national interest, affordability and energy security considerations.

Macgregor's remarks come at a time when global oil markets remain sensitive to geopolitical developments and supply disruptions. He said India's balanced approach allows it to navigate these uncertainties while sustaining economic growth.

Overall, the assessment positions India's discounted crude imports as a stabilizing economic factor in an increasingly fragmented global energy landscape.

IIFCL targets ₹75,000 crore sanctions in FY26 growth push

NEW DELHI

India Infrastructure Finance Company Limited (IIFCL) is targeting loan sanctions of around ₹75,000 crore in FY26 following a record performance in the previous fiscal, Managing Director Rohit Rishi said, highlighting strong credit demand across infrastructure segments.

The state-owned infrastructure financing institution also reported a sharp improvement in asset quality, with its non-performing assets (NPA) ratio declining to 0.40 per cent, reflecting tighter risk management and improved recovery mechanisms across its loan portfolio.

According to Rishi, the strong momentum in infrastructure financing is being driven by sustained government capex, increased private participation, and rising demand for long-term funding in sectors such as transport, energy, logistics, and urban development.

He noted that IIFCL's expanding role aligns with India's broader infrastructure growth strategy, as the country continues to prioritise large-scale investments in roads, railways, ports, renewable energy, and digital infrastructure. The institution has been focusing on diversifying its lending portfolio while maintaining a strong emphasis on credit quality and project viability.

Officials said the reduction in NPAs to 0.40 per cent marks one of the strongest asset quality improvements in recent years, supported by better project monitoring and resolution of stressed accounts. The improvement also reflects the broader resilience of India's infrastructure financing ecosystem amid global economic uncertainties.

Rishi added that FY26 is expected to remain a strong year for infrastructure lending, with continued pipeline growth in both public-private partnership (PPP) projects and standalone government-funded projects. He also emphasized the importance of blended finance structures and long-term debt instruments to support large infrastructure projects.

IIFCL's performance comes at a time when India's infrastructure push remains central to economic growth strategy, with the government focusing on enhancing connectivity, boosting manufacturing competitiveness, and supporting urban expansion.

The institution's outlook signals continued optimism in India's infrastructure financing space, underpinned by stable macroeconomic conditions and sustained policy support for capital investment-led growth.

Sangakkara Questions Curran's IPL Exit Amid Return

JAIPUR

Royals coach expressed disappointment after Sam Curran played county cricket despite withdrawing from the IPL.

Rajasthan Royals head coach Kumar Sangakkara has raised questions over Sam Curran's decision to withdraw from the ongoing Indian Premier League (IPL) after the England all-rounder was seen playing for Surrey in the T20 Blast competition.

Curran had been expected to play a significant role for the Rajasthan Royals after joining the franchise from Chennai Super Kings as part of a trade deal that also involved Ravindra Jadeja.

However, following the T20 World Cup, the all-rounder pulled out of the IPL citing a groin injury, forcing the franchise to seek a replacement.

The Royals subsequently signed Dasun Shanaka as Curran's replacement. Shanaka featured in seven matches for the franchise during the season, including the second qualifier, where Rajasthan's campaign came to an end with a defeat.

Speaking after the match, Sangakkara expressed his disappointment over the situation, stating that the franchise had been informed that Curran was suffering from a season-ending injury. He noted that the Royals would have welcomed the opportunity to have the England international available if he was fit enough to participate in competitive cricket.

According to Sangakkara, the team proceeded with its plans based on the information it had received regarding Curran's fitness status. While he acknowledged that Shanaka had provided cover after being brought in as a replacement, he suggested that the circumstances surrounding Curran's return to action were frustrating for the franchise.

The controversy emerged after Curran was spotted leading Surrey in the ongoing T20 Blast. The England all-rounder has captained the county side in all three matches played so far and has made an immediate impact with the bat. Despite not bowling yet in the competition, he currently stands among the leading run-scorers in the tournament.

Earlier this year, Curran had spoken openly about the injury that forced him to withdraw from the IPL. He explained that he had been managing the issue for some time and that medical scans revealed sufficient damage to warrant a period of rehabilitation.

WI Defeat Pakistan To Continue Winning Run

HAVANA

West Indies continued their impressive start to the Women's Tri-Series in Ireland with a convincing 25-run victory over Pakistan, registering their second consecutive win in the competition. After overcoming hosts Ireland in their opening fixture, the Caribbean side delivered another strong all-round performance to maintain their unbeaten record.

Batting first, West Indies posted a formidable total of 199 for 6, thanks to valuable contributions from several players throughout the innings. Although experienced stars Deandra Dottin and Qiana Joseph failed to make significant scores, captain Hayley Matthews provided a blistering start.

Matthews attacked the Pakistan bowlers from the outset, scoring 40 runs from just 20 deliveries. Her aggressive knock included nine boundaries and laid a solid foundation for the innings before she was dismissed. Following her departure, veteran batter Stafanie Taylor continued the momentum with a composed innings of 39 runs.

Same intensity every game, one of Sai biggest strengths - Gill

AHMEDABAD

There were some concerns and more than a few raised eyebrows at the start of IPL 2025 when Gujarat Titans revealed that Jos Buttler would bat at No. 3. The Englishman, surprisingly released by Rajasthan Royals, is one of the great white-ball batters of his generation and had built a remarkable IPL career as an opener. The Titans instead chose to elevate Sai Sudharsan alongside captain Shubman Gill, a decision that has since become one of the defining features of their success. Last year, they amassed 912 partnership runs at a run rate of 9.56. This season, they have raised the tempo to 10.56 while still retaining remarkable consistency, reaching 886 runs together. Another 54-run stand in Sunday's final would take them past the all-time IPL record set by the legendary Royal Challengers Bengaluru pair of Virat Kohli and AB de Villiers during their groundbreaking 2016 campaign. Like Kohli and de Villiers before them, Gill believes a strong personal equation underpins their success at the crease. "You know we spend a lot of time in the IPL together on the field, off field as well and then we are in the Test team as well, so we have a lot of conversations. There are things that we talk about cricket, outside of cricket," Gill said ahead of the final.

Jurel praised Rajasthan Royals' approach and highlighted the importance of confidence in guiding young bowlers

Dhruv Jurel Reflects On Royals' Positive IPL Campaign

CHANDIGARH

Rajasthan Royals wicketkeeper-batter Dhruv Jurel reflected on his team's IPL 2026 campaign after their journey ended with a seven-wicket defeat to Gujarat Titans in Qualifier 2. Despite narrowly missing out on a place in the final, Jurel expressed pride in the positive brand of cricket played by the Royals throughout the season.

The knockout clash in New Chandigarh saw Rajasthan Royals post a formidable total of 214 for 6, largely due to a sensational innings from Vaibhav Sooryavanshi, who scored 96 runs and put his team in a strong position. However, Gujarat Titans responded emphatically, led by captain Shubman Gill, whose magnificent unbeaten 104 guided his side to victory and secured a place in the IPL final against defending champions Royal Challengers Bengaluru.

Speaking after the match, Jurel shared insights into his role as a wicketkeeper and the approach he adopts while working with bowlers, particularly young players making their debut in the tournament.

He explained that rather than instructing bowlers on specific deliveries, he focuses on building their confidence and helping them trust their abilities. According to Jurel, debutants often face immense pressure and uncertainty, making reassurance and encouragement more valuable than technical advice during high-pressure situations.

The wicketkeeper said he understands the challenges faced by newcomers because he has experienced similar situations himself. He noted that young players can easily become overwhelmed by the magnitude of the occasion, leading them to overthink their decisions and lose confidence in their natural game.

Jurel emphasized that giving excessive instructions can sometimes create self-doubt among inexperienced players. Instead, he prefers to remind them that they have earned their place in the team through their talent and hard work. By encouraging them to back their instincts and commit fully to their plans, he believes they can perform with greater clarity and confidence.

From behind the stumps, Jurel sees his role as offering support and reinforcing positive thinking. He aims to assure bowlers that their decisions are sound and that they should focus on execution rather than worrying about potential mistakes.

Reflecting on Rajasthan Royals' overall campaign, Jurel maintained that the team consistently played attacking and positive cricket throughout the season. Although the Royals fell short of reaching the final, he suggested that their approach and performances provided several positives to build upon for future seasons.

The campaign also showcased emerging talents and strong team performances, helping Rajasthan Royals remain one of the most competitive sides in the tournament. While the defeat to Gujarat Titans ended their title hopes, Jurel's comments highlighted the team's belief in its methods and commitment to playing fearless cricket throughout IPL 2026.

McCullum faithful of Stokes, England ahead of home season

LONDON

The England men's cricket team are heading into the upcoming home series against New Zealand on the back of a 4-1 drubbing at the hands of Australia in their last ICC World Test Championship outing.

After 10 matches in the ongoing 2025/27 cycle, England are placed seventh in the Standings with a PCT of 31.67.

Despite the recent performances, head coach Brendon McCullum is confident that his team can turn the tide and emerge as a 'more robust' side.

We've made some significant progress in the last four years but the job isn't done, McCullum told Sky Sports.

I think our best days are in front of us as a cricket side. I think a lot of stuff we have developed over the last four years will allow us to shape our side as we move forward.

Following the disastrous Ashes loss and the ICC Men's T20 World Cup earlier this year, where England finished as the semi-finalists, McCullum was retained as the head coach across all formats.

One of the notable criticisms of the England Test team during recent times has been their aggressive style of play. McCullum believes finding a balance will hold the key for England in the coming days.

I firmly believe positive and aggressive cricket can live with smart cricket, he said.

We play a strong style but sometimes when we get ourselves in winning situations we don't necessarily do what needs to be done.

We need to navigate through those moments with the necessary calm, poise and tactical awareness to ensure you close games out.

I'd like us to be a team that people recognise for how we play but also understand that we are fiercely competitive, well-prepared, clearly talented and tactically clever.

I am confident that with the sharpening we have identified that we can become a more robust side when the pressure is at its highest, one that will be hard to beat and give ourselves the best opportunities in big series, which is the one area we have missed. We have a fierce ambition to achieve that.

Shaheen Afridi on Pakistan quicks losing speed: 'Machines deteriorate with time'

LAHORE

In Pakistan, there is concern about the dwindling speeds of their fast bowlers, to the extent that the National Cricket Academy is devising a plan to try and overcome it, according to ODI captain Shaheen Shah Afridi on the eve of the series opener against Australia in Rawalpindi.

Pakistan have a rich legacy of express fast bowlers, but the current crop remains under scrutiny because of their inability to match the pace of their contemporaries. The drop in speed has more often than not hampered the team's ability to dismiss oppositions twice in Test matches.

Their speeds were under the scanner throughout the 0-2 series Test series defeat for Shan Masood's team in Bangladesh. Across both Tests, the average speed of the Bangladesh fast bowlers (high-130s to mid-140s) was higher than Pakistan's (mid-120s and early 130s).

The decline in Afridi's bowling speed has been noticeable. He has struggled to bowl at 140kph consistently since his comeback from a knee injury in 2022, impacting his effectiveness. He was dropped for the Sylhet Test and had also been left out of the side for the second Rawalpindi Test against Bangladesh in 2024.

It was a stunning change in fortune for Afridi, who was considered to be Pakistan's spearhead at the turn of this decade. Before the fateful dive in Galle that halted his Test career for a year, Afridi picked up 99 wickets at 24.86. His next 27 wickets have been at over 40 runs apiece.

Afridi said Bangladesh seamer Nahid Rana's performance in that Test series - 11 wickets in two Tests while bowling consistently in the high-140s - could not be seen in the same lens as Pakistan's because he is still young at the international level.

First of all, Bangladesh fast bowler [Nahid] Rana must have played seven-eight matches, he said. It is a norm that machines deteriorate with time. We are trying to recharge ourselves.

You can put more pace in the ball when your body has had rest, but our bodies remain always at Pakistan's disposal. All the bowlers are thinking about how they can increase their speeds. Some of our bowlers are playing Tests and the others are playing ODIs so they stay fresh.

Vinesh Phogat Reaches Asian Games Trials Semifinals

Vinesh Phogat advanced to the semifinals after securing two victories in the Asian Games trials

NEW DELHI

Indian wrestler Vinesh Phogat continued her impressive return to competitive wrestling by booking a place in the women's 53kg semifinals at the Asian Games selection trials in New Delhi on Saturday.

The experienced wrestler began her campaign with a convincing 7-1 victory over Jyoti before overcoming a stern challenge from Nishu in the quarterfinals. Vinesh emerged victorious by a narrow 7-6 margin in a closely contested bout, moving one step closer to securing a place at the Asian Games.

Her participation in the trials came after a dramatic sequence of events over the previous two days involving both the Supreme Court and the Wrestling Federation of India (WFI). The uncertainty surrounding her eligibility was resolved only when the Supreme Court permitted her to participate in the selection process.

Competing in her preferred 53kg weight category, Vinesh initially appeared slightly rusty during her opening match against Jyoti. She secured the first point through a push-out and gradually began to impose herself through effective standing wrestling. The contest became more competitive when she was placed on the activity clock early in the second period, prompting her to increase the intensity of her attacks.

Vinesh responded strongly by executing a successful leg attack that resulted in a takedown and a 3-0 advantage. She then displayed her trademark defensive awareness and counterattacking ability. After successfully defending a leg attack from Jyoti, she capitalized on the opportunity to score four additional points, extending her lead to 7-0. Although Jyoti managed a late push-out point, Vinesh comfortably secured a 7-1 victory. The quarterfinal against Nishu proved to be a far more demanding encounter. Unlike her opening bout, the match remained closely fought from start to finish, with both wrestlers exchanging points throughout. Vinesh ultimately held her nerve to register a narrow 7-6 win and advance to the semifinals.

The former World Championships medalist now stands just two victories away from earning a place in the Indian team for the Asian Games. Her return to the 53kg category was made possible after the WFI revised its earlier decision that had restricted her to competing in the 50kg division.

The change came following internal discussions within the federation and intervention from WFI president Sanjay Singh. Vinesh had strongly opposed the original decision, arguing that the restriction was unfair and discriminatory. Elsewhere in the trials, Antim Panghal made a dominant start by defeating Tannu through technical superiority in just 34 seconds.

KAPIL DEV'S Support Boosts Indian Golf's Growth

PGTI chief says Kapil Dev's involvement has strengthened confidence and credibility within Indian golf.

NEW DELHI

The association of cricket legend Kapil Dev with Indian golf has provided the sport with significant credibility and renewed confidence, according to Professional Golf Tour of India (PGTI) Chief Executive Officer Amandeep Singh Johl.

Speaking about Kapil Dev's expanding role within the organisation, Johl said the former World Cup-winning captain's commitment to golf has sent a powerful message about the sport's potential and future in India. He described Dev's involvement as an endorsement from one of the country's most respected sporting figures, highlighting the opportunities that exist within professional golf.

Johl noted that it is uncommon for a sports icon of Kapil Dev's stature to actively support and promote a discipline outside his own. He pointed out that while many influential figures contribute to the growth of cricket, very few have chosen to invest their time and reputation in advancing another sport.

According to Johl, Dev's journey within the PGTI structure demonstrates his belief in golf's future. Beginning as a board member, later serving as vice president, and now taking on a leadership role with the DP World PGTI, Kapil Dev has consistently backed efforts to elevate the sport's profile and expand its reach.

The PGTI chief said that Dev's involvement has reinforced the belief that Indian golfers can compete successfully at the highest international level. He emphasized that India possesses the talent and potential to produce champions capable of excelling on the global stage and bringing greater recognition to the country within the golfing world.

Johl added that Kapil Dev's support has inspired confidence among players, administrators, and fans by demonstrating that Indian athletes can aspire to be among the best in the world regardless of the sport they pursue.

While discussing the progress made by golf in India, Johl also acknowledged the challenges facing the sport, particularly in securing sponsorship and financial support. He said many corporations continue to perceive golf as an elite activity associated primarily with wealthy individuals, making it difficult to attract broader investment.

According to him, one of the key objectives of the PGTI is to change this perception and highlight that golf is accessible to people from diverse economic backgrounds. He stressed that many successful Indian golfers have emerged from humble beginnings and achieved remarkable success through determination and hard work.

India win 2 gold medals in women's wrestling in Vietnam

NEW DELHI

India's young wrestlers delivered a strong showing in the women's wrestling events at the U17 Asian Wrestling Championships in Da Nang, Vietnam, securing two gold, two silver, and one bronze medal on the day.

Diksha (43kg) led the charge with a dominant run, defeating Asangaryeva (Kyrgyzstan) 6-0 in the final to clinch gold. She had earlier outclassed opponents from Kyrgyzstan (8-0) and Vietnam (10-0) en route to the summit clash.

In the 73kg category, Garima produced an attacking masterclass to overpower Namuuntsetseg Batbold (Mongolia) 18-6 in the final and secure India's second gold medal. India added two silver medals through Nikita (49kg) and Antra (65kg). Nikita went down 2-10 to Yuan Yuting (China) in the final, while Antra lost 0-5 to Siyu Wei (China) in her gold medal bout after an impressive run that included a hard-fought semifinal win over Japan.

Sakshi (57kg) claimed India's lone bronze of the day, bouncing back from a narrow semifinal defeat to beat Arina Kuanyshova (Kazakhstan) 10-0 in the medal playoff. India's continued success at the age-group level underlines the depth of emerging talent in women's wrestling, following the country's strong performance at the U23 Asian Championships earlier this week.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY DEFEAT

India Draw Women's Hockey Series Despite Final Defeat

PERTH

The Indian Women's Hockey Team concluded its four-match friendly series against Australia with a hard-fought 3-2 defeat in the fourth and final match in Perth on Saturday. Despite the loss, the visitors finished the series on level terms, with both teams winning two matches each.

India made a bright start and took control of the contest almost immediately.

In just the second minute, Navneet Kaur successfully converted a penalty corner to hand India an early advantage and put pressure on the hosts.

The visitors continued to dominate proceedings and extended their lead in the second quarter. Deepika Soreng found the net in the 23rd minute with a well-taken conversion, giving India a commanding 2-0 lead.

Their disciplined defensive structure and effective ball control ensured that Australia was unable to respond before the break, allowing India to carry the two-goal advantage into half-time.

Australia, however, staged a strong comeback in the third quarter. The hosts reduced the deficit through Abby Wilson in the 42nd minute before Olivia Downes equalised just two minutes later. The quick succession of goals shifted the momentum firmly in Australia's favour and set up a tense final quarter. With the match appearing destined for a draw, Australia found the decisive breakthrough late in the game.

Courtney Schonell scored in the 58th minute, completing the comeback and securing a narrow 3-2 victory for the hosts. Although India narrowly missed out on a series triumph, the tour provided several encouraging signs for the team. After losing the opening match, India demonstrated resilience and determination by recovering strongly to win the next two encounters, showcasing both attacking flair and defensive discipline.

One of the highlights of the series came in the third match when India produced an impressive 2-0 victory over Australia. The contest remained goalless during the first half as both sides maintained disciplined defensive structures and limited scoring opportunities.

Raksha Khadse hails Pooja's stellar performance at U20 Athletics Championships

NEW DELHI

India's rising high jump star Pooja received high praise from Union Minister of State for Youth Affairs and Sports Raksha Khadse after scripting history with a gold medal-winning performance at the 22nd Asian U20 Athletics Championships in Hong Kong.

The young athlete cleared 1.93m to win gold and set a new national record, surpassing the previous mark of 1.92m held by Sahana Kumari since 2012. Her effort also eclipsed the championship record of 1.90m set by Uzbekistan's Svetlana Radzivil in 2006.

Congratulating the teenager on her landmark achievement, Khadse said the nation was proud of her accomplishment and hailed her journey as an inspiration for aspiring athletes across the country.

India is proud of you, Pooja.

Your flight will continue to inspire generations to come to reach new heights, Khadse wrote in a post on social media.

The minister described the gold medal-winning leap as a historic moment for Indian athletics, noting that Pooja had first improved her own Under-20 national record by clearing 1.91m before going on to scale 1.93m and claim the senior national record as well.

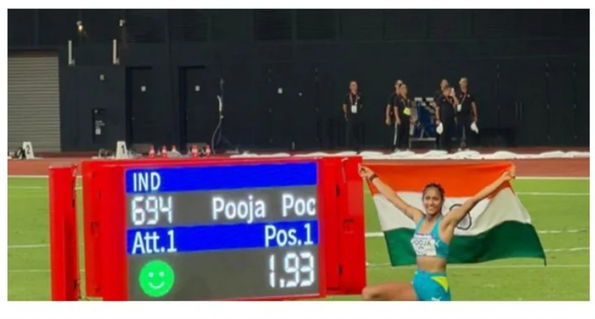
According to Khadse, the achievement made Pooja India's all-time No. 1 women's high jumper and helped her surpass the 14-year-old national record set by Sahana Kumari.

The jump also enabled her to attain the qualification standard for the 2026 Commonwealth Games.

First, she cleared 1.91 meters to improve her own Under-20 national record. Immediately after, with a stunning 1.93-meter jump, she also claimed the senior women's national record in her name.

This is the highest height ever achieved by any Indian woman in the high jump, she said.

This is not just a gold medal, but a flight of dreams, dedication, and tireless hard work.



D Gukesh Embraces The Pressure And Possibilities Of Being WC

NORWAY

At 20, D Gukesh is carrying a burden few in chess ever faced the weight of being a world champion. Yet with a title defence looming, the Indian Grandmaster sees those expectations not merely as pressure but as an opportunity to test his limits, build character and emerge stronger. As he bid farewell to his teenage years, Gukesh remained one of the main attractions at Norway Chess, where organisers marked the rest day with a sailing trip on the calm waters of the Oslofjord.

Bringing together all 12 players from the Open and Women's tournaments, the outing offered a rare chance to unwind, recharge and gather fresh energy before the demanding rounds ahead.

But even amid the scenic backdrop, Gukesh appeared deep in thought -- perhaps unsurprising given his difficult start to the tournament, where he currently sits at the bottom of the six-player standings. It was a reminder of the struggles he had spoken about before the event, as he continues to navigate the unique pressures that come with wearing the world champion's crown at such a young age. It's (expectation) something that obviously I've had to deal with and sometimes struggled with. But pressure is also a privilege, so it's a chance for me to grow through the challenge.

Belgium are capable of achieving great things: coach Garcia

BRUSSELS

Belgium football head coach Rudi Garcia has shown firm belief in his side to achieve great things as they gear up for their fourth consecutive FIFA World Cup appearance.

Belgium are placed in Group G with Egypt, Iran and New Zealand, and the 62-year-old coach has set a clear goal of coming out on top in the group stage and securing a favourable draw for the next round.

We need to distinguish between our objective and our ambition. Our priority is to get through the group stage. Let's come out on top so that we earn a more favourable draw and, ideally, stay put [in Seattle for the Round of 32]. That will be the objective! Garcia told FIFA in an interview.

Belgium suffered a shocking group-stage exit at the Qatar 2022 World Cup but are in a much better place in the ongoing tournament, as their opponents are less experienced than they are. With 14 World Cup campaigns already under their belt, they possess vastly greater pedigree on the global stage than the rest of the group combined, eclipsing Egypt's three, Iran's six and New Zealand's two appearances to date.

Although the odds appear to be in their favour, Garcia is taking nothing for granted. We have a huge amount of respect for the other three sides in our group, he stressed. This is what the World Cup is all about. We know Egypt well; they're one of the best teams in Africa. I know all about Mo Salah as I coached him at Roma. We're also up against a team from Oceania and one from Asia. We're obviously less familiar with them as we don't see them play as often, but we're looking forward to finding out what the Iranian and New Zealand teams are made of.

Let's start by respecting our group-stage opponents.

Emilia Clarke Denies Exaggerated Game Of Thrones Salary Claims

Actress Emilia Clarke has dismissed long-standing rumours about the salaries earned by the cast of the hit fantasy series Game of Thrones, saying the figures reported over the years were greatly exaggerated.

In a recent interview with Variety, Clarke rejected claims that she and several co-stars earned as much as USD 300,000 per episode during the show's run. Responding to the reports, she said the cast did not earn that much and joked that she would have been driving several luxury cars if the figures were true.

Clarke, who played the iconic role of Daenerys Targaryen, did not reveal the actual salaries but maintained that published reports significantly overstated the cast's earnings. She also chose not to comment on earlier reports suggesting some lead actors received up to USD 500,000 per episode.

The series premiered in 2011 and concluded in 2019 after eight successful seasons. Alongside Clarke, the show featured actors such as Kit Harington, Lena Headey, Nikolaj Coster-Waldau and Sophie Turner.

Clarke recalled that she experienced equal pay treatment during her time on the series. Speaking previously about pay parity, she said her salary was not affected by her gender.

The actress also reflected on the fame that came with the show's global success and spoke about surviving two brain aneurysms in 2011 and 2013 while filming. Clarke said the medical emergencies deeply affected her emotionally, but she overcame the challenges and completed all eight seasons, becoming one of the show's most celebrated stars.

Directed by Surender Reddy, Athidhi originally released on October 18, 2007. The film featured Amrita Rao in her Telugu debut, alongside Murali Sharma and Ashish Vidyarthi. The movie later inspired the Bangladeshi remake Durdhorsho Premik and remains a popular title among Mahesh Babu's fans.

ALIA BHATT

To Portray Alpha Killer In Upcoming Film

Bollywood actress Alia Bhatt is set to take on a bold and unconventional role in the upcoming Yash Raj Films action entertainer Alpha. According to sources associated with the production, the actress will play a highly trained assassin described as an alpha killer.

Reports about her character have been circulating on social media for some time. A source close to the project confirmed that Alia's character is not a traditional spy or a conventional hero. Instead, she plays a deadly assassin who has been raised and trained to kill from a young age.

The source revealed that Yash Raj Films chief Aditya Chopra wanted to create a fresh and unique protagonist for the YRF Spy Universe. Unlike the heroic characters introduced earlier, Alia's role is expected to be more complex and independent, with a personality that follows its own rules rather than seeking approval from others.

According to the source, this approach reflects modern audiences' preference for exciting and unconventional characters. The makers believe the role will offer a new perspective within the expanding spy universe and bring a different style of action-driven storytelling.

The film also stars Sharvari in a key role, while Bobby Deol will portray the main antagonist. Veteran actor Anil Kapoor also plays an important role in the movie.

Directed by Shiv Rawail, known for directing the acclaimed web series The Railway Men, Alpha is scheduled to release in theatres on July 3. The film is expected to be a major addition to the YRF Spy Universe with its female-led action narrative.

JANHVI KAPOOR

Rules Out Malayalam Films Due To Language

Actress Janhvi Kapoor has said that she is not considering working in a Malayalam film anytime soon, citing the difficulty of learning and speaking the language. The actress made the remarks while promoting her upcoming Telugu sports action drama Peddi, which stars Ram Charan in the lead role.

In a conversation with, Janhvi expressed her admiration for Malayalam and described it as a beautiful and sweet language. However, she admitted that she finds it challenging to speak and does not feel confident about taking up a Malayalam-language project at present.

The cast also includes Shiva Rajkumar, Jagapathi Babu, Ravi Kishan and Boman Irani in important roles.

Premalu 2 Shelved As Script Fails Expectations

Fans waiting for a sequel to the blockbuster Malayalam film Premalu have received disappointing news, as lead actor Naslen has confirmed that Premalu 2 has been cancelled for now.

Directed by Girish A D, Premalu emerged as one of the biggest Malayalam hits in recent years. Starring Naslen and Mamitha Baiju in the lead roles, the romantic entertainer was set in Hyderabad and won praise for its engaging story, performances and youthful appeal. The film also crossed the Rs 100 crore mark at the box office.

Following its success, the makers announced plans for a sequel. However, updates on the project remained scarce, leading to speculation about delays. Earlier, producer Dileesh Pothan had indicated that the sequel was unlikely to move forward.

Speaking in an interview with Club FM, Naslen confirmed that the project had officially been shelved. He explained that despite efforts to develop the sequel, the script did not reach the level of perfection expected by the team. According to the actor, certain technical and creative challenges prevented the project from progressing further.
